Water Board Is Re-Elected

Mrs. Lois Meyers Named Collector; W. E. Jenkinson Is Chosen As Assessor

The regular election of El Dorado Irrigation District, conducted on Wednesday the question of directors in Divisions 2, 3 and 4, and over the district at large on the matter of choosing a tax collector and an assessor, developed some contests although none was apparent on the printed ballot.

All members of the board who figured in the election were re-elected: James A. Irving in Division 2 with 13 votes and no opposition; and J. C. Shuman in Division 4 with seven votes and no opposition. In Division 3, Dr. W. A. Rantz was re-elected with 54 votes and nine votes were written in on the ballot for Philip Frost.

Over the district at large, on the question of tax collector, Mrs. Lois Meyers, who was the only candidate named on the ballot, received 75 votes. Write-in votes were cast as follows: for Fern Goodrich, 36 votes; for Lulu Cook one vote and for Elmer Kent one vote.

Mrs. Florence Donnell, incumbent tax collector, was not a candidate for re-election.

Walter E. Jenkinson, who had been appointed by the board to complete the unexpired of the late Fred Hosking as assessor, was elected to that office with 97 votes. Write-in votes were cast as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, seven; and for E. L. Scott, Fern Goodrich and Clifton H. Wildman, one vote each.

The board of directors of the district will meet Monday to canvas the election.

COUNTY DRAFT QUOTA OF 31 ON FEB. 19

Classification Of Men In Selective Service Continued By Board

The United Press reported early Thursday afternoon that El Dorado County's quota in the third draft call is thirty-one men, who will report at the induction center at Sacramento on February 19th.

The quota was announced by state selective service headquarters on Thursday morning.

The El Dorado county draft board had not been officially advised of the quota early Thursday afternoon. However, attaches of the board said that if the number reported is correct, thirty-one, the figure results from the rejection of one man at the induction center in the second conscription call.

It was explained that the quota previously set for the county was thirty, and that the rejection of one man in the second call caused one more to be added in the third call, possibly making thirty-one.

Selective service offices stated that questionnaires are going out rapidly to men registered in the draft and noted that the advisory draft board maintains offices at the War Veterans' Memorial Building, afternoons from one o'clock until five o'clock, and evenings from seven o'clock until nine o'clock for the assistance of men who require help in filling out their questionnaires.

It was urged that men who receive questionnaires should fill them out and return them promptly, in any event not longer than five days from the date of receipt.

BANK WANTS WOOD FROM COUNTY AS SOUVENIR IN DEDICATION

E. Ogden Hook has appealed to the Chamber of Commerce for assistance in supplying a request received during the week from the offices of the Bank of America at San Francisco.

The bank is preparing to lay the cornerstone of its new $2,000,000 building and wishes to obtain wood from the fifty-eight counties of the state to be used to make the handle of the trowel to be used in the cornerstone ceremony.

Appealing to the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hook, manager of the Placerville Branch of the bank, suggested that it might be possible a piece of wood historic to the county, such as a part or a timber from the Sutter mill at Coloma, or of the old hangman's tree, might be available.

The request suggests a piece of wood four inches square.

Mrs. Charles Rice was a caller Thursday morning from Coloma.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Merryman report that plans are practically complete for their big carnival dance, which is to be held at Merryman's hall Saturday night, Feb. 8. According to the owners this is the first dance to be held at their place for three weeks.

LINDBERGH'S STAND TOLD

"Lease-Lend" Bill Might Weaken U. S. Defense, Hold Invasion Threat, He Says

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said today that the administration's British-aid bill would weaken American defenses "still further" and might result in invasion of the United States.

"Personally, I don't believe that England is in a position to win the war," he told the senate foreign relations committee.

"If we deplete our forces still further, as this bill indicates we may, and if England loses the war, then, gentlemen, I think we may be in danger of invasion, although I do not believe we are today."

"If we ever are invaded in America, the responsibility will lie upon those who send our arms abroad."

He said he opposed the bill because it "endorses a policy that will lead to failure in war, and to conditions in our own country as bad or worse than those we now desire to overthrow in Nazi Germany."

He repeated his preference for a negotiated peace to complete victory by either Great Britain or Germany.

He testified after Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, said "It is fantastic to suggest that we are in any danger of attack."

Lindbergh denied that he had ever taken the position that it "makes no difference to us" who wins the war.

"It does make a difference to us, a great difference," he said. "But I do not believe that it is either possible or desirable for us in America to control the outcome of European wars."

"When I am asked which side I would like to have win, it would be very easy to say 'the English,' but, gentlemen, English victory, if it were possible at all, would necessitate years of war and an invasion of the continent of Europe. I believe this would create prostration, famine, and disease in Europe—and probably in America—such as the world has never experienced before."

"That is why I say that I prefer a negotiated peace to a complete victory by either side."

"I do not believe that the danger to America lies in an invasion from abroad. I believe it lies here at home in our own midst, and that it is exemplified by the terms of this bill—the placing of our security in the success of foreign armies, and the removal of power from the representatives of the people in our own land."

Amendments Seen
WASHINGTON, (UP)—Democratic members of the house foreign affairs committee today accepted two additional amendments to the British-aid bill but rejected a proposal to put a ceiling on the amount the President may spend under the program.

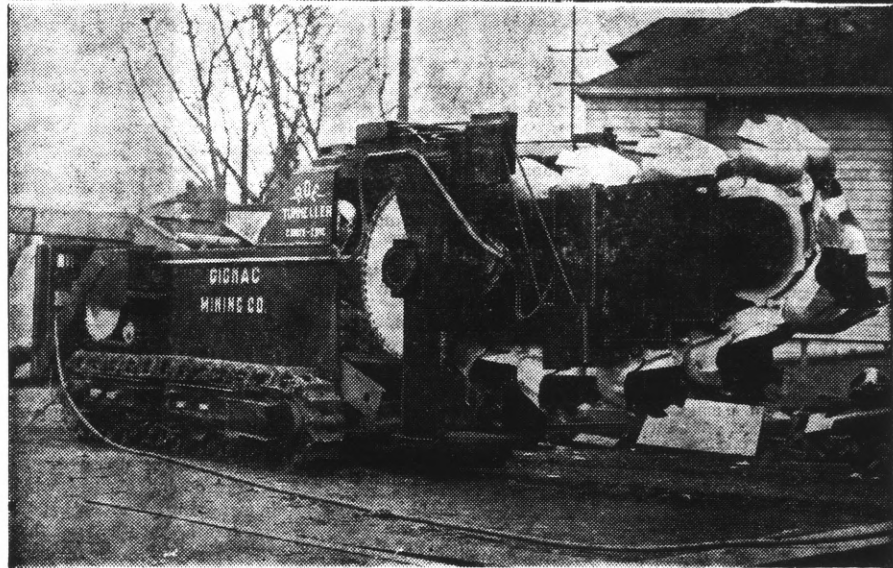

The new amendments which the democratic members of the committee approved were:

1. Insertion of a three-year time limit beyond the life of the bill itself for the completion of contract entered into. Thus, all contracts for war materials and supplies would have to be finished by June 30, 1946.

2. Insertion of language providing that the act may not be construed to permit the entry of any American vessel into a combat area in violation of the neutrality act.

Four amendments previously had been agreed to by the committee's democratic majority. One of them would terminate the life of the bill on June 30, 1943. The new limit would serve to prevent the President from entering into contracts which could not be completed within three years after that date.

Helen Russell, Placerville cosmetician, who disappeared nearly two weeks ago, is reported to have been located with other relatives and has returned to her mother's home at Sacramento, according to word received by Placerville officials.

"SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN" in mining, which will be watched with interest by the industry, is an excavator machine or tunneler, being put to work on the Gignac Mine, at Texas Hill. In the pictures are, upper, Eugene Smith and Charles Roe, designers of the machine, inspecting the control box with R. C. Breakenridge and L. A. Delamothe, owners of the machine and operators of the Gignac Mine. The machine, a twenty-ton unit which tunnels into gravel property, is shown below. ## BRITISH DRIVE INTO AFRICA

Fascists Continue Retreat; Rome Reports Demonstration Against "Whispering"

By UNITED PRESS
British blows against Italy's African empire have forced Italian troops to fight fiercely for Keren, only 35 miles from the Eritrean capital of Asmara and only 60 miles from Italy's major red sea port of Massawa, the Italian high command admitted today.

In north Africa the Italians continued to fall back on their sole remaining major Cyrenaican base at Benghazi and reports reflecting Italy's position came from Rome. These were that 500 Fascist students, carrying both Italian and German flags had paraded in protest against "a whispering campaign in connection with the war."

Indicating the intensity of British air fighting yesterday, the Germans claimed the destruction of 18 British fighters and bombers, chiefly over the Calais area during a British daylight sweep of the French channel coast. The Germans asserted they had lost only three planes yesterday. In London the air ministry said that only seven British planes had been lost during Wednesday's operations against German invasion ports on the continent.

Speculation on the situation in the Balkans continued with authoritative informants in London hinting the theory that Turkey might enter the war if Germany marched through Bulgaria to attack Greece.

A British spokesman said that such a German move would affect Turkish vital interests, causing "Turkey to react accordingly."

Apparently new information in London had caused a shift in British opinion, since only yesterday there was a tendency to believe that active Turkish opposition to a German march into Bulgaria was most improbable.

Wounds Fatal To Lumber Worker

George N. Johns Dies At Hospital Of Apparent Self-Inflicted Hurts

George N. Johns, 53, employed the past seventeen years by the Michigan-California Lumber Company at Pano Grande, died Wednesday night at a Placerville hospital of a bullet wound in the head, self-inflicted with a 38 calibre Colt pistol.

Notes left by Johns attributed the act to ill health and suggested that authorities might find a sister, Mrs. Maggie Osborne, living at Thayer, Kansas.

Authorities reported that Jones also left a will, drawn by himself and dated January 7, 1941, in which he turned all of his belongings over to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kirk who had been his friends for several years and who had resided with him at his home in the Mosquito district for several months.

Officials said they learned from Mr. and Mrs. Kirk that Mr. Johns had indicated he had not communicated with his folks for many years.

According to Deputy Sheriff George Morgan, Johns accompanied Mrs. Kirk to the home of a neighbor late Wednesday and then (Continued on Page Three)

GUARDS ADDED AT AIR BASE

Evidence Of Attempted Sabotage Is Rumored In Sacramento Circles

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—It was reported today that authorities at McClellan Field, the U. S. Army's $8,000,000 air depot here, had uncovered evidence of an attempt to sabotage a military plane at the depot.

The post adjutant said he could neither confirm nor deny the report. All other comment was refused. However, it was said that guards at the depot had been strengthened.

It was reported that the attempted sabotage was of a nature easily detected. The type of plane damaged was not known. It was said wing surfaces and ailerons were damaged.

The air depot's ships on hand usually consist of transport and cargo planes, light attack bombers, and two or three primary training planes, and handles extensive overhaul jobs that could involve any of the types of ships in use.

A huge four-motored flying fortress is at the depot, having flown from Ladd Field, Fairbanks, Alaska, for installation of equipment to combat extremely low temperatures.

The depot's engine and propeller repair departments employ large numbers of civil service workers, in addition to regular enlisted personnel. There is strict enforcement of pass requirements for admission to any portion of the grounds.

Drunken Driver Fined $200 On Tuesday

Ernest Cooksey, of North Sacramento, was fined $200 Tuesday in Justice Court following his arrest on Saturday by Captain E. A. Brewster, of the highway patrol, on charges of drunken driving. Freeman Brack, also of North Sacramento, and said to have been a companion of Cooksey was fined $25 when found guilty of being drunk on a public highway. Both men appeared before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis.

George E. Faugsted was at Sacramento on Thursday.

MACHINE MAY AID MINING IN COUNTY

Excavator, Designed By Oakland Men, To Work On Texas Hill Property

The attention of the mining industry will be centered on the Gignac Mine, in the Texas Hill district, during the coming weeks where a new machine is to be employed in the mining of a gravel property.

The contrivance, designed by Eugene Smith and Charles Roe, of Oakland, is being used by R. C. Breakenridge and L. A. Delamothe in mining an eighty acre tract held under lease and option and owned by Mrs. Olivine Stone.

The machine, with the necessary supplementary equipment, arrived at the mine by truck from Oakland on Wednesday. The excavator weighs twenty tons.

The excavator was built at a cost of $22,000 and the designers, basing their figures on the results of experiments with models, say it can operate successfully on gravel yielding as little as $1.50 per yard.

Operating on an eight-hour shift basis, they expect to send an average of 150 yards of gravel a day to the washing mill where the gold is separated from the rock in sluices.

The machine is operated by one man. It sends the gravel back on a conveyor belt to a low bed truck.

Under the old manual methods of deep channel mining, a five-man underground crew was necessary for five yards per day—a quota which made it impossible for small operators to work low-grade channels.

The excavator is powered by six electric motors. It carries 11 sharp-edged buckets, each with a one-cubic foot content.

The buckets, mounted on a revolving chain, can be moved on a boom so that a tunnel from 8 by 8 ft. to 14 by 14 ft. can be driven.

As it digs, the machine passes the material back through its middle on a belt to the truck. It operates upon a 220-volt line. The controls are mounted on a small box which can be carried by the driver. It crawls into its self-made hole upon tractor tracks.

County Fair To Be In August

Annual Report Presented Legion Post; Directors To Be Named Next Meeting

The El Dorado County Fair for 1941 will be held "the third weekend in August" it was announced Thursday morning by George E. Faugsted, chairman of the fair association.

Mr. Faugsted said the date was chosen at a recent meeting of the directors of the association. He reported also that the fair board had presented its annual report to the Board of Supervisors during the week, and had made its report to El Dorado Post No. 119, American Legion, on Wednesday night.

The directors of the county fair association for the new year are to be named at the next meeting of the American Legion which, at the request of the Board of Supervisors, has presented the county fair each year.

Mr. Faugsted said that following the report, there was a discussion by the post relative to future plans for the fair.

6 PER CENT DERRIS POWDER MAY PROVE CONTROL FOR WARBLE FLY

Derris powder with six per cent rotenone has been found in preliminary experiments to give a good control for warble flies, according to Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley.

The mixture should be applied with a stiff brush so as to make sure of application to the infected area.

Mr. Lilley states that a four per cent powder has been found to give fairly good results, but experiments with this preparation have not been carried on to a sufficient extent to be accredited as conclusive. Further experiments are being made.

Authorities state that if a given area two square miles in extent is "cleaned up," it has been shown that it reduces the running of cattle in the Spring.

HIGH WINDS LASH SCATTERED SECTIONS OF COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP) — Gales which lashed scattered sections of the Pacific Coast abated today, but left widespread destruction in their wake.

Ukiah and Eureka in California, and Ashland in Oregon appeared to have been hit hardest by the gales in the short-lived storm yesterday. A wind described as the strongest old-timers could recall cut a wide path through the center of Ukiah, felling trees and power poles, lifting ing of roofs, and scattered debris over a wide area.

In the Eureka area the gale reached velocity of around 75 miles an hour. Telephone service between Eureka and San Francisco was disrupted when a falling tree tore down the telephone line at South Fork.

CHAPTER I

TWILIGHT was spreading its mantle over Miami, and over the surface of Biscayne Bay.

The solitary figure of a man stood on the western shore of the bay and watched night come on. His thatch of tawny hair was bared. Flung cotton shirt and dungarees clung to a lithe figure that somehow conveyed the impression of physical strength out of all proportion to the leanness of him.

The thin ruggedness of his features was stamped with the indefinable mark of a man who had traveled a long, weary road but had found every hardship worth while. Telling in the Kansas wheatfields, punching cows on the plains of Texas mucking in the Arizona mines, lousing in nobo jungles, lost in elbows with Broadway throngs—through all of this, he had enjoyed life to the full.

way his head was oack and a tuneless whistle escaped his lips. The path narrowed, plunged into a dark tunnel between trees with branches intertwined overhead. Suddenly scuffling footsteps close behind him made him whirl instinctively aware of danger. His two shadows leaped upon him.

He slugged out viciously without pausing to set himself. His fist thudded solidly against flesh, slued one attacker aside.

Simultaneously he felt the stunning weight of a blackjack on his shoulder. His hand shot out and clutched the second attacker's wrist, closed on it with crushing force. The man squealed in pain and dropped the blackjack. Jim forced him to his knees.

Then the first man was back charging in. Jim met the charge with a smashing left hook. The man on the ground clutched at his knees, dragging him down. Jim swept an arm out and brought the other man down on top of them.

The three of them became a writhing, kicking mass. Against odds the advantage was all with Jim. He was able to lash out in-

"A couple of other guys must have made the same mistake a few minutes ago. Who is Long?"

"Mr. Long? A very nice gentleman. Clerk in a travel bureau." The bartender glanced critically at Jim's attire. "I don't see how I could have made such a mistake."

Jim grinned. "I get you. He and I don't travel in the same social circle. Okay. You needn't rub it in. Reach down a bottle of your brandy Domestic."

With a bottle and shot-glass before him he waved a chaser away. He was holding the glass under his nose, sniffing appreciatively, when the bartender made a quick gesture.

"Here's Long coming in now."

JIM turned, then stared frankly at the young man who had just come in. No wonder the bartender had taken him for Long! He saw the resemblance at once. It was incredible!

Long had the same tawny hair as his, but neatly combed; he had the same-shaped face, the same wide mouth, the same strong chin.

He slugged out viciously, slued one assailant aside.

But, unceasingly, there had burned within him the steady flame of conviction that what he did was but a prelude to a tremendous experience that would one day be his destiny. The past was as a springboard upon which he was now poised.

As his steady gray eyes—the eyes of a dreamer—gazed out over the waters of the bay, he had a strange presentiment that he was on the brink of his greatest adventure. It was in the caress of the sea breeze upon his tanned cheeks in the sensuous incense of tropical flowers surrounding him.

He turned his face toward the open sea. The true tropics lay southward. He had been born in the tropics thirty years ago and the years had not erased his poignant memories of his early childhood. He understood, now, what instinct had driven him southward. It had been a fugitive desire, unrecognized and uncomprehended to return to the part of the world in which he had been born.

SIGHING, Jim Talbot turned his back upon the water, thrust his hands deep in his pockets, and headed into the park that edged this shore of the bay.

He did not see the two figures that detached themselves from the deep shadow of a hedge and stalked after him.

As he followed a curving pathdiscriminately with fists and feet not caring which opponent he struck, whereas his attackers hampered each other doing as much damage to themselves as to Jim. They got their fill in a hurry. Before Jim realized the fight was over, they were reeling away through the trees, two flitting shadows.

JIM sat up, staring after them in bewilderment. What could two thugs like that have against him? It manifestly had not been an attempted stick-up.

He got to his feet and tested himself cautiously. He seemed to be all in one piece.

Shrugging, he went on toward Biscayne Boulevard, taking up the tuneless whistle where it had been interrupted. Reaching the Boulevard, he paused in momentary indecision, then dodged through the light traffic and sauntered up Second Street.

Passing a quiet barroom, he decided he needed a drink and turned into the place.

As he strolled up to the bar and spun a half dollar on the mahogany, the bartender glanced at him casually.

"Good evening, Mr. Long. What's the man paused, his eyes blinking. 'I—I beg your pardon,' the bartender stammered. 'At first glance, I mistook you for a regular customer—Mr. Long.'"

Jim lit a cigarette and said drily

Birthstones

Amethyst--February

The February stone, is the purple variety of quartz — name from Greek word meaning "without drunkenness" — kept wearer from intoxication — was the stone of the tribe of Dan in the High Priests' breastplate — purple (often reddish) from Russia (Siberia) — light shades found nearly everywhere — good qualities today from Brazil and Uruguay — always an ecclesiastical stone, worn by Roman Catholic Bishops and other prelates.

said he would return to his home. Not long afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk went home and found Mr. Johns in the basement with a bullet in his head.

Authorities were notified and he was removed to the hospital, passing away later in the evening.

GRASS VALLEY MINERS TO DISCUSS STRIKE ON SUNDAY

GRASS VALLEY, (U)—The Mine Workers Protective League today postponed a strike scheduled for Saturday pending consideration of a new offer by the operators of ten mines affected by the dispute. A mass meeting was scheduled for Sunday to take up the operators' proposal, terms of which were not revealed. The league, an independent union representing 2500 workers in Nevada county gold mines, is demanding a closed shop. The chief operators involved in the dispute are the Empire Star, Idaho-Maryland and the Golden Center corporations.
